BERLIN 1945

3 x 50' (ENG, GER, FRE), 1 x 180', 2 x 90' (ENG, GER)

Berlin 1945 time-travels into the city's most fateful year through the eyes of those, who experienced it: German people and Allied soldiers.

A fast paced collage creates an in-the-moment narrative of how the war was won and lost. Hitlerboy Dirk and Goebbels watch their world implode, while Alice fears for her children in Auschwitz and Russian soldier Victor walks through the plundered Chancellery. When it's all over, Germans learn democracy and socialism. Giving voice to Soviet, US, UK and French soldiers as well as to the German population anxiously awaiting the outcome of the fighting. BERLIN 1945 creates an innovative, comprehensive narrative of how the war was won and lost, how the city was liberated and how it emerged from the rubble.
