

CURRENT AFFAIRS

FIFA AND THE PRICE OF FOOTBALL

45' (GER, ENG subs)

Corrupt, reform reluctant, almighty and irresponsible – this is the image we get of the FIFA that presents itself as the world's biggest family.

Corrupt, reform reluctant, almighty and irresponsible – this is the image we get about the FIFA that presents itself as the world's biggest family. The latest news on the arrest of seven FIFA officials and Blatter's resignation just four days after the election validate the impression. In his speeches Blatter likes to talk about the pacifying effect of football and how his work makes the world a better place. But this is not the case for workers in Qatar and Russia. This report draws a morbid picture on the mighty organization.

Fotos: ©WDR

Original Title:	Der verkaufte Fußball: Sepp Blatter und die Macht der FIFA
Year:	2015
Produced by:	WDR / Die story im Ersten

