THE LAST BELL STROKE

52' (ENG, GER)

For 400 years, master bell maker Cornelia Mark-Maas' family business has created bells for some of the most iconic churches in the world.

The master bell maker walks us through the meticulous steps of production, which can take several months. If anything goes wrong during this period – the damage could be immense. We accompany the family for four years, gaining insight into their work and the loving people behind it. Will we learn the well-kept family secret of how to get the right tone into a bell. Will Julius, the son of Cornelia, be able to pass his master's examination and take over the business in its 7th generation?
