GALLIPOLI 1915

52' (ENG, GER)

This is the story of a campaign to capture the Gallipoli peninsula from the Ottoman empire in 1915.

The six months of war that was fought on the Gallipoli peninsula was the culmination of months of British errors. The transfer of Imperial prejudices to military planning ended up costing thousands their lives and showed the incompetence of British generals. The Allies had managed to survive the fire power of machine guns in France, but were brought down by a few Turkish weapons on a largely undefended beach. This documentary tells the tragic story from both sides, with Turkish and British experts on location.
