52' (GER, FRE, ENG subs)

For most people they are just annoying - mosquitoes. Due to various exotic species that are plaguing Europe, these bloodsuckers are prone to spread even deadly tropical diseases.

Biologist Norbert Becker and his team are trying to battle midges in the Oberrhein area with special poison created to kill mosquito larvae. However, with climate change expediting the invasion of exotic midges like the “Asian Tiger Mosquito” and their pathogens, their task is proving to be quite difficult.
