EGONOMICS

52' (GER, FRE, ENG subs)

In times of global economic and banking crises, many issues regarding the role of leadership have been raised.

The economic crisis doesn't only impact negatively on economic growth but also on ethics and morals in the business world. The seemingly detached parallel world of bosses and the conduct of some managers give us much to think about. The film approaches the topic analytically answering the question: are those in leadership positions egocentric psychopathic narcissists without any sense of responsibility?
